The City of Caribou is applying for a EPA Brownfields Grant to clean up the former power plant site. Phase one will be to remediate the diesel plant building and the other small buildings on the site. Phase two would be the remediation of the steam plant building. Currently, the City of Caribou does not own the bulk plant tanks.

The City of Caribou acquired the property through the automatic lien foreclosure process in 2019.

Unfortunately, the property is frequented by vandals and scavengers. The City of Caribou would like to reuse the property for economic development and for the benefit of all citizens. The Aroostook River is beautiful, and this is a cornerstone of the efforts of the Caribou Riverfront Renaissance Committee.
